Russia Said Making Arms

BRITISH HINT
ACTION AGAINST
PACT VIOLATIONSoviets Reported Making
Armaments In Their Zone Of Germany

LONDON, Aug. 22—The British government announced today that it had received secret reports that the Russians were making armaments in their zone of Germany, and hinted that it would take diplomatic action on the matter.

A foreign office spokesman, disclosing the receipt of reports of Soviet arms manufacture in the occupied zone of Germany, said such procedure would violate the Potsdam agreement.

At the same time the spokesman hinted strongly that Great Britain was selling radar equipment to Sweden for use in tracing the course of mysterious rocket projectiles over Scandinavia.

The informant said it was "very possible" that this country would resort to diplomatic measures in connection with the reports of Russian armament making in Germany.

Started Year Ago
The first reports of such activity in the Soviet zone reached Britain a year ago, and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin took up the matter with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the July, 1945, meeting of the foreign ministers.

Bevin asked for an investigation to allay any unfounded suspicions.

Molotov replied that the demilitarization of Germany had not yet progressed to the point where an investigation could be accepted—to which our reply was that the question was not of the progress of demilitarization but simply of whether the armament manufacture still was going on.

There the matter rested.

Meanwhile we have continued to receive reports of this kind.

Asked if the reports came from British military authorities in Berlin, he said that "I can only say these reports reach us."

Sweden Helped
When he was asked if he could confirm reports that British radar equipment was going to Sweden for use in rocket tracing, the spokesman said:

"It is very possible we have been selling radar to the Swedes."

Pressed for a more specific answer, he finally said:

"I am authorized to state that it is understood that some radar may well be being sold to Sweden. I can tell you that Sweden recently bought from us some airplanes which require radar equipment. It may be that this equipment was surplus war equipment, and it is customary when selling technical equipment of this nature to send technicians along to explain the operation to the purchasers."

JEW'S BLOW HOLE IN BRITISH TROOP SHIP

JERUSALEM, Aug. 22—Three daring Jews, swimming through Haifa harbor under withering gunfire, blew a hole in the refugee troop ship Empire Rival last night by attaching mines to its hull.

The explosives planted by the swimmers blasted a hole eight by three feet in the ship's side below the waterline. The Empire Rival pulled into shallow water under her own steam. A few minutes later she reportedly began to fill with water.

The swimmers used the same "frogman" tactics used by the Germans against allied ships during the war.

By damaging the Empire Rival, the Jews have now knocked out both Liberty ships assigned by the British to transporting illegal Jewish immigrants from Haifa to Cyprus.

The Empire Heywood is being repaired in Haifa harbor after being damaged by flashlight bombs exploded inside her hold.

The Empire Rival was attacked shortly after returning from her second trip to Cyprus with deportees. The refugees aboard the damaged Empire Heywood had been scheduled for transfer to the Rival.

Late last night three swimmers were seen behind the Rival's stern. British soldiers opened a heavy fire, but the swimmers proceeded to attach "limpet" mines to the ship's hull. The "frogmen" then swam away into the night.

Police and soldiers searched Haifa for them today without result.

Nervousness in Jerusalem was intense amid obvious security preparations for a new phase British military operations. The country awaited a decision by Lt. Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, British commander in Palestine, either confirming or commuting the death sentences passed by a military court on 18 Jewish extremists.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—A new government crackdown on non-residential building was under preparation today.

It would cut sharply into what Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., described as "an orgy of building which includes honky-tonks, race tracks and swimming pools—but not homes."

A spokesman for housing expert Wilson W. Wyatt said in an order covering the slash would be issued within ten days.

It is expected to trim another one-third to one-half from the present reduced rate of approvals for commercial and industrial construction.

RULED SUBJECT TO ARMY TRIAL

FRANKFURT, Aug. 22—An American military court ruled today that Capt. Kathleen Durant was still in the Women's Army Corps and subject to army jurisdiction for trial in the $1,500,000 Kronberg jewel theft case.

Immediately after the ruling, Mrs. Durant stood mute when asked to enter a plea on a long list of charges which were read by the court.

The court's ruling was made after Mrs. M. V. Lambertson, Schenectady, N. Y., a war widow and the first trial witness, quoted Mrs. Durant as saying on June 18 that she had been recalled to active duty on May 28. Mrs. Lambertson is an employee of the army finance section in Frankfurt.

She made statements as to terminal leave and active duty and supported them with orders, Mrs. Lambertson said.

SOVIET SUPPORT TO DETERMINE
YUGOSLAV REPLYUltimatum Handed Nation Is Very Stern; United Nations May Act

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Official circles believed today the extent of active Russian support may determine whether Marshal Tito will release all imprisoned American fliers by 10 p. m. EST tomorrow, or defy a white-hot United States ultimatum.

If Tito decides on defiance, the United States will take the matter and its accompanying implications of power politics in eastern Europe before the security council of the United Nations.

How far Russia has influenced Yugoslavia in her recent actions, no one is willing to say. But the best opinion in official circles was that the Soviets have, at the very least, encouraged Tito to take a strong anti-American line. These officials thought that Moscow, while not dictating tactics, might well be outlining the strategy.

Officials here believed Russia could go far toward determining whether Tito yields to the American demands or lets the matter go before the security council. Some thought Tito might go to Premier Stalin for advice.

(The Paris peace conference was at a standstill awaiting the outcome of the crisis. Diplomats attending the Paris conference also were said to believe that the outcome may depend on how much support Russia gives Marshal Tito.)

The United States last night gave Yugoslavia 48 hours to hand over the imprisoned survivors of two unarmed Army planes forced down by Yugoslav guns, or have this country take the matter to the United Nations.

GI Terminal
Leave Pay
Blanks Here

Veterans of World War II may now call at the Circleville post office and get their application forms for terminal leave pay.

Postmaster A. Hulise Hays announced that a supply of the blank forms arrived at the postoffice Thursday noon. The forms are available at the parcel post window, the postmaster said, and the window is open from 7:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday through Friday, and from 7:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Saturday. It is closed on Sundays.

Under regulations announced by the War, Navy and Treasury departments at Washington the veterans must obtain the form entitled "claim for settlement of unused leave," must fill in the form properly, then have their statements sworn to and notarized, and the form must be mailed to the address on its reverse side. Either a certified copy or a photostatic reproduction of the veteran's discharge document must accompany the mailed form.

If less than $50 is due the veteran he will get a check for the full amount. If the amount exceeds $50 the veteran will be paid in bonds in multiples of $25, with any odd amount by check. Payments are to be made at the rate of pay in effect at the time of separation from service. All claims must be filed by Sept. 1, 1947. The bonds will be non-negotiable but they may be used in payment of premiums on government or national service life insurance. The bonds will mature in five years and they bear two and one-half per cent interest.

ORANGE PRICES

OPA ANNOUNCES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Prices on oranges will go up tomorrow an average of one-half cent a pound.

OPA said the new ceilings are tied to an increase of 37 cents a box for oranges at shipping points, also effective tomorrow.

The higher prices were authorized, OPA said, to reflect the sharp increase since April 17 in parity prices and to cover further rises.

AS TENSION RIDES HIGH

TENSION BETWEEN British and American forces on the one hand and Yugoslav troops on the other makes the above area one of the most dangerous in Europe today. In addition to sporadic clashes between U. S.-British and Yugoslav soldiers, unarmed American transports have been attacked by Yugoslav fighter planes. Yugoslav Premier Tito, in answer to U. S. protests, denies the first plane was lost in clouds and "regrets" the second was downed, declaring "Yugoslavia desires peace but not at any price." (International)

Bloom Predicts Russia
Will Ask 'Real Peace'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Chairman Sol Bloom, D. N. Y., of the house foreign affairs committee, predicted today that the threat of "isolation from the rest of the world" will compel Russia to negotiate for "realistic and permanent peace."

"The United States will win the diplomatic battle and win it soon," Bloom said in an interview. "We will probably come to a showdown even before the meeting of the general assembly of the United Nations next month."

Bloom, whose views often reflect state department policy, said he believed the "strong" attitude taken by the Soviet Union towards the United States is "largely for domestic consumption." The Russian government, he said, "wants its people to feel that it is strong and actively pushing the Communist philosophy throughout the world."

"They are acting in a spirit of total unreality," Bloom said. "We have offered them nothing but nothing unacceptable. Yet they persist in their strange attitude."

The "ultimate weapon" to combat the Soviet attitude in world affairs, he said, is the "moral weapon."

12 KILLED IN
IRAN AS ARMS ARE COLLECTED

TEHRAN, Aug. 22—Reports from north Iran today said 12 persons were killed in a clash touched off by resistance to a government campaign to collect all "illegal arms in that part of the country."

Unofficial sources reported skirmishes in three Iranian border areas—the Pahlavi zone on the Caspian sea, the Iraq frontier region in the south, and the Kurdistan area in the far northwest.

The reports indicated a rash of unrest throughout the country. Premier Ahmed Ghassem extended the Tehran curfew by an hour to "remove temptation from the reach of troublemakers."

Advices from the north said the Iranian gendarmerie killed 12 persons and scattered the remainder of a band armed with pistols and rifles. The exact numbers involved were not reported.

Kurdistan reports said armed bands were skirmishing in the border zone, where the gendarmerie killed five persons and captured weapons from what were called "local bandits." They were reportedly driven back across the border.

U. S. Consul To See Wreckage

BELGRADE, Aug. 22—Ambassador Richard C. Patterson flew to the resort village of Bled today to hand Marshal Tito a copy of the U. S. ultimatum on the downing of would reject the U. S. ultimatum, and presumably to ask what he was going to do about it.

The streets of Belgrade were plastered with posters calling Yugoslav military classes to the colors. Men through 26 were directed to present themselves to military commissions for drafting within one week from a specified day. The appearance of the posters seemed to be purely coincidental.

Yugoslav officials had yielded somewhat on their know-nothing attitude. The U. S. vice consul at Zagreb, Theodore Hohenhalt, was given permission to view the wreckage of the U. S. Army transport which crashed Monday, and was at a small village near the scene.

To View Scene
American graves registration officials also will be permitted to visit the place where the C-47 transport bound from Vienna to Udine, Italy, was shot down in flames. Three crewmen were not accounted for, and two parachuted.

Official sources said the headquarters of the Yugoslav fourth army so far had no information regarding the two who bailed out of the plane when Yugoslav fighters attacked it Monday over the area where another transport was forced down 10 days earlier.

Patterson flew to Bled in north Yugoslavia for a face to face talk with the Yugoslav leader on the gravest international crisis since the war.

With him were the embassy secretary, William Fairleigh, and the U. S. military attaché, Col. Richard Partridge, and the assistant attaché, Lt. Col. Chester Stratton.

(In London, an informed Yugoslav spokesman forecast that Tito would reject the U. S. ultimatum. He said Yugoslavia felt there was no ground for consideration of the dispute by the United Nations security council.)

PARIS, Aug. 22—Foreign Ministers V. M. Molotov of Russia and Edward Kardelj of Yugoslavia conferred for 40 minutes today, presumably on the American ultimatum to Yugoslavia.

Molotov and Kardelj talked in an antechamber of the Luxembourg palace during the morning session of the peace conference.

While they were talking, Ukrainian foreign minister Dmitri Manuilski warned the delegates that "the Balkans once more may become the powder keg of Europe."

Neither Manuilski nor any other speaker had referred directly to the American-Yugoslav crisis. Manuilski denounced what he called a policy of greed with regard to the Balkan states, saying it was (Continued on Page Two)

CITY SCHOOLS

Circleville school children will return to their classrooms September 12, for the opening of the 1946-7 school year, it was announced Thursday by the board of education.

Supt. Frank Fischer said that while the finding of teachers proved more difficult this year the teaching staff is now practically complete and that about a dozen new teachers have been engaged.

The newest addition to the school personnel Supt. Fischer announced, is E. R. Bennett, who began his duties Wednesday as assistant to Football Coach Steve Brudzinski. Bennett, a native of Lawrence county, graduated from Ohio University in 1938 and he and his wife will establish their home in Circleville. Bennett was an artillery captain in the Army and was recently discharged.

SOVIET SUPPORT TO DETERMINE YUGOSLAV REPLY

48 hours after its government received the note. Official sources said they had been assured that the note would reach the proper officials by 10 p. m. EST last night.

In plain talk that bristled with anger and sarcasm, the U. S. pinned on Yugoslav officials the responsibility for the death of "some if not all" of five crew members in the second plane, forced down Aug. 19. It was reported that three of the five airmen were killed.

These fliers, the U. S. said, "met their death not by accident but by deliberate acts of Yugoslav authorities."

The note was handed to Yugoslav charge d'affaires Sergej Makleda at 5:10 p. m. (EST) yesterday by acting secretary of state Dean Acheson. It was made public at 10 p. m. EST. The usual diplomatic procedure is not to make such matters public until they have been received in the capital of the government involved.

Makleda appeared to be badly shaken when he emerged from Acheson's office about five minutes later.

The language of the note showed why.

It accused Yugoslavia, as a government which "professes to be a friendly nation," of "outrageous acts." It bluntly termed the acts as:

1. "A plain violation of the obligations resting upon Yugoslavia under the charter of the United Nations not to use force except in self-defense;

2. "Without the slightest justification in international law;

3. "An offense against the law of nations and the principles of humanity."

The note said that the explanations the Yugoslav government had given for its fighter planes shooting down the American transports were "wholly unsatisfactory to the government and shocking to the people of the United States."

The note even rejected the Yugoslav "excuse" that the planes were shot down because they were over Yugoslav territory. It said the U. S. would discuss that excuse after talking to the men who were the victims of the attack.

The U. S. even quarreled with Yugoslav arithmetic. It asserted that Yugoslav claims that her territory had been violated by American planes 44 times since Aug. 10 were incorrect. Since that time, the Yugoslavs were told, there had been only 32 flights scheduled over the Italy-Austria route, and all the pilots were told to avoid flying over Yugoslavia.

The U. S. note denied that the flights, the first of which occurred on July 9, in any way "constituted a threat to the sovereignty of Yugoslavia."

"At no time," it added, "did the Yugoslav government advise the United States government that if one of its planes should, because of weather conditions, be forced a mile or two outside the corridor (the airline route across southeastern Austria) or, because of mechanical troubles, should find itself outside of that corridor, the Yugoslav government would shoot to death the occupants of the plane."

"The deliberate firing without warning on the unarmed passenger planes of a friendly nation is in the judgment of the United States an offense against the law of nations and the principles of humanity."

"Therefore the government of the United States demands that you immediately release the occupants of these planes now in your custody and that you insure their safe passage beyond the borders of Yugoslavia."

"The government of the United States also demands that its representatives be permitted to communicate with any of the occupants of the two planes who are still alive."

"If within forty-eight hours from the receipt of this note by the Yugoslav government these demands are complied with, the United States government will determine its course in the light of the evidence then secured and the efforts of the Yugoslav government to right the wrong done."

"If, however, within that time these demands are not complied with, the United States government will call upon the security council of the United Nations to meet promptly and to take appropriate action."

Should the matter go to the security council, with the possibility opposition in both the house and senate.

Senate majority leader Frank E. Whittemore said last night that the senate would conclude work today on all portions of the governor's seven-point program except the housing bill.

Whittemore said senate Republicans would probably draft their own housing measures "Friday or sometime next week."

The administration bill, introduced in the senate by minority leader Maurice Lipscher, D. Mahoning, was referred to the committee in judiciary.

In the house, Rep. Walter Tarr, R. Hamilton, introduced a resolution which charged the governor's bill sought to "set up a giant state bureaucracy with many employees and the usual red tape."

Tarr's resolution, laid over under house rules, said the "proposed legislation is an attempt to give us more socialized housing quarters under the guise of helping the veterans of World War II find shelter."

Three bills requested by the governor were passed by both houses of the legislature in sessions yesterday. They provided for:

1. Acquisition of the Pomeroy-Mason bridge by the state highway department and for making it toll free.

2. Easing of controls on the issuance of licenses to practice medicine in Ohio to give recognition to doctors who served in the armed forces.

3. State allocation to counties of aid to dependent children in conformity with the new federal formula for increased aid.

Passed by the senate and sent to the house were bills which provided increased old age pensions with provisions for $200 to pay medical expenses, increased pensions with medical expenses and a $15,665 appropriation to the health department to conduct a survey of hospitals in Ohio.

The senate also passed a revenue study commission bill which provided for a 12 member commission and a $15,000 appropriation to cover expenses.

Official sources here believe that the Yugoslav action in shooting down the American planes, Russian demands for bases in the Dardanelles plus continued friction between Russia and the western allies in Germany and Austria, are part of a Soviet-dominated pattern.

It is believed that the Russians are trying to find out just how far they can go in pushing the western powers out of Europe and the Middle East.

So far as these officials are concerned—and they are understood to include President Truman, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Acting Secretary Acheson—the United States must show the Russians that they cannot go any farther.

At the moment, their apparent intention is to play the U. S. hand through diplomatic channels only. The war department policy is to keep hands off and avoid friction wherever possible. For example, transport flying near Yugoslav or Russian territory will not be given fighter escort.

Meanwhile, the 45,000-ton carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt and an escort of five destroyers and two cruisers was heading from Lisbon to Gibraltar. The Navy said the ships would engage in training maneuvers in the Mediterranean before returning home.

Sneh, a Hagana leader, was waiting in Jerusalem if he carries out his announced plan to return from Paris to Palestine. He was sought in military operations last month but showed up in Paris for a meeting of Jewish leaders.

A boiler explosion in Tel Aviv early today resulted in numerous reports of an impending "swoop" by the Jewish underground movement.

A five-language broadcast by the extremist Irgun Zvia Leumi radio last night urged all nations not to cooperate "with the British in their blockade against Jewish refugees." The appeal was broadcast in English, Russian, French, Italian and Hebrew.

having "a nefarious effect on international relations."

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes also was conferring with various persons. Chief among them was Sen. Tom Connally, D. Tex., who arrived to join the American delegation to the conference. He flew from Southampton where he had been on the Queen Mary.

Byrnes went to Luxembourg palace for the opening of the plenary session today. But he left soon after the opening. He appeared to be engaged in efforts incident to his reported readiness to accept the failure of the conference if necessary to win the dispute with Yugoslavia.

An afternoon plenary session of the conference adjourned after hearing only completion of translations of the last speech at the morning session.

Byrnes stated American world prestige and chances for a successful conference on his ultimatum demanding satisfaction from Yugoslavia within 48 hours for Yugoslav actions in shooting down two American transport planes.

He is convinced, it was understood, that failure of the peace conference would not be too great a price to pay for bringing the Yugoslavs to heel. The conference could not succeed, anyway, if the Yugoslavs were permitted to get away with the shooting incidents, Byrnes was said to believe.

Byrnes was represented as feeling that American prestige in the critical Trieste area hinged on the airplane incidents. Unless the United States gets satisfaction, he feels, her military and diplomatic position will be imperiled.

The ultimatum created severe agitation among the delegates, who had not realized the United States was ready to bring matters to a head. For days they had been whistling in the dark, hoping the dispute would not affect the conference.

ing reactions from the various political groups.

Patterson left aboard a special plane which was assured by the Yugoslavs of safe passage to Bled, resort near the Austrian frontier where Tito is vacationing.

After the meeting Patterson planned to continue by plane to Zurich. The rest of his party expected to return at once to Belgrade.

A tour of the capital disclosed a wide range of reaction to the U. S. ultimatum. Government supporters were reluctant to discuss the situation before learning what interpretation had been placed on it by higher quarters.

Opposition Happy
The government opposition greeted the news with ill concealed satisfaction. The question that appeared to be asked most often in the countless street corner and cafe gatherings was whether Yugoslavia had defied the allies independently or after consultation or "by order."

When the newsboys began hawking their papers, they had an eager clientele. But all the boys shouted was the result of the latest lottery drawing.

The situation lent a wry twist to the opening of a Slovene war crimes trial at Ljubljana. One of the most serious charges was shooting U. S. airmen who bailed out over Slovenia during the war.

Erwin Rosener, former SS general and police chief of Slovenia, was accused of shooting four American aviators who parachuted late in 1943, as well as several others in the last phase of the war. Slovene peasants said they secretly buried the bodies of the slain Americans and were punished by the Germans. Among the defendants was the Roman Catholic bishop of Ljubljana, Dr. Gregory Rozhman, who now is interned in the British zone of Austria awaiting a decision on whether he will be handed over. He was charged with collaboration with Benito Mussolini and the Slovene quisling, Leon Rupnik, another defendant.

people and here they have taken on the tasks of handling other nations," he declared.

The Russia "satellite nations"—Lithuania, Romania, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Estonia and Yugoslavia—are "nothing but graveyards," Bloom claimed.

"Surely they could add nothing in the way of serious strength to the Soviet Union in the event of a showdown with the world," he said.

But he added that the United States must implement its foreign policy "with an aggressive stand." No act yet committed—including the shooting down of American planes over Yugoslavia—necessarily means war, he said, but it is a sign "that we should stand for no nonsense."

"Poland, Yugoslavia, Lithuania—all those nations can solve their own problems if the people have a full voice in their own affairs," he said. "We must insist that Russia keeps its hands off the internal affairs of those countries," he added.

TWO YEAR HUNT FOR MAN WANTED BY COURT ENDS

Sought for more than two years, Elwood Remley, 45, one time Circleville resident, was in the Pickaway county jail, Thursday, charged with contempt of court.

Remley was taken into custody at Columbus, where he has been operating a downtown filling station, by deputies from the office of Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

The contempt charge is an aftermath of a divorce obtained in Circleville more than 14 years ago by Remley's wife, Sheriff Radcliff said that Remley was held in contempt of the Probate court as a result of failure to pay alimony for the support of a minor child. Remley will be given a hearing before Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

STINKING SMUT DAMAGES WHEAT IN THIS AREA

25 Per Cent Of Wheat Hurt By Disease, No. 1 Menace To Ohio Crop

"Stinking smut," a grain disease, caused a greater loss to the 1946 Pickaway county wheat crop than it has for several years. It is Ohio's No. 1 wheat disease. Approximately 25% of the wheat was damaged by this disease this year.

The smut destroys a lot of the grains in the infected heads and also reduces the market value of the entire crop because of peculiar odor and black dust caused by the smut balls and spores.

Lowered wheat yields and loss in market value from "stinking smut" can be prevented by first cleaning the seed with a fanning mill and then treating with "New Improved Ceresan" dust. The dust is used at the rate of one-half ounce per bushel of seed. The wheat should be left in sacks or in a pile for at least six hours after treatment.

Seed may be treated one or two months before sowing. Treated wheat is poisonous to livestock and should not be fed or sold as feed.

Pickaway county farmers who treated their seed wheat last Fall reported very little stinking smut in this year's crop; most of the smut appeared in fields seeded with untreated seed last Fall.

Some of our local elevators have equipment available for seed treatment; one farmer uses a cement mixer for treating.

Stinking smut on next year's wheat crop can be largely prevented by seed treatment before sowing time this Fall.

ODT OPPOSING MORE BOX CARS TO HAUL GRAIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Director J. Monroe Johnson of the office of defense transportation said today that diversion of more boxcars to grain harvest areas would disrupt other phases of the nation's economy.

Johnson's statement was in response to appeals to route more boxcars to corn and wheat regions in the Midwest and Northwest.

About 1,000 boxcars a day are already being sent through western gateways from all parts of the country, Johnson said. No more cars can be spared, he added.

He urged shippers to cooperate by loading and unloading cars on Saturdays and Sundays and by following ODT regulations. He added that "western grain growers are not alone in their need for rail transportation."

'PROMISED LAND' IS CLOSED TO 18 ESTONIANS

Refugees From Europe Find They Need Permission To Land In America

By FRANK EIDGE, JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent
MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 22—America, the long dreamed of promised land was near, yet "so far" for 18 sturdy, sun-tanned Estonians here today.

Members of the hardy band, which included a stocky, blond, five-year-old girl, were being temporarily denied entrance to the United States after a 60-day, 3,600 mile sea trip aboard a 38-foot sailing sloop.

The fate of the 11 men, six women, and tiny Eha Kogu, was being weighed by American immigration authorities.

"No one regrets it more than I," Miami immigration director Francis J. H. Dever said today. "But we cannot allow them entrance to this country without credentials, or without special permission."

None of the weary, but happy sailors possessed an immigration permit. A guard stood lax watch over the tight, weather-beaten little "Inardo," as Captain Felix Tandere, the only English-speaking member of the party, made it shipshape against the possibility of further traveling.

"But we won't go back," Tandere, a ruddy, former Baltic sailor, declared.

"We don't know where we will go. But I know it will not be back to Estonia," he said in the halting English which he learned as a sailor aboard British ships.

"Before the war we lived under Russian rule," he explained briefly to haul tiny Eha back from the ship's rail where she had wandered with a makeshift toy. "Then we lived under the Germans."

"I will tell you here in America what I have been afraid to say before. There is no choice between those two."

"If we must go we will go on. Even if we must travel all the way to Australia. Our ship is small. But it's taken us this far. They can't take the sea away from us. Thank God," he added quietly. As he spoke his fingers wandered to his chest and a suspended St. Christopher's medal—patron saint of travelers. He was also the trip navigator.

Other party members, mahogany brown by sun and salt water, lounged on the tiny ship's topside as they waited to learn whether

TERMINAL PAY 'GOLD RUSH'

WHEN A LOS ANGELES NEWSPAPER announced it was printing a supply of terminal leave pay applications, through special arrangement with the War Department, more than 10,000 veterans flocked to their offices seeking the forms. Here are the first to arrive, with other thousands waiting outside to enter the offices.

their long, desperate journey was to be crowned with success.

As they loafed, they talked in Estonian. The women eyed the clothing, or lack of clothing, displayed by passing American girls.

The voyagers, many of them sturdy descendants of seafaring ancestors, weathered the cramped trip without mishap. Even Eha, daughter of Arnold and Ludmill Kogu, two of the pilgrims, took the trip like a seasoned sailor.

Only 12 bunks were housed in the tiny cabin of the fishing vessel which they had purchased in Sweden after pooling their meager earnings. Members of the party slept by shift. All took turns in standing watch except the child.

The meager supplies were cooked by the women and their food was running dangerously low when they folded their sail in the port of Miami yesterday. They had been on a water ration of one quart per day.

They sailed from Kristiansand, Sweden, May 30, on their long hejira to America. They were among hundreds of refugees who fled the Baltic states when the enemy German heel descended in 1944.

CAPT. HEINE COMMENDED FOR CHAPLAIN WORK

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, ABERDEEN, Md., Aug. 22—Captain Francis J. Heine, formerly of Saginaw, Michigan, and Columbus, Ohio; now stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., was recently awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon, by Major General M. S. Eddy, Commanding General, Second Army.

The citation read "for meritorious and distinguished service in the performance of his duties as Assistant Post Chaplain, Indian-town Gap Military Reservation, Pennsylvania, from 3 Sept. 1945 to 22 March 1946. Captain Heine brought complete and helpful advice and comfort, both spiritual and material to officers and enlisted personnel of the post. His sympathetic understanding of personal problems, his spirit of fairness and his ability to secure the cooperation of others, contributed greatly to the general well being of all personnel of the command. Captain Heine devoted long hours of thought and consideration to various special events and welfare campaigns that were conducted during this period. The work accomplished reflects the utmost credit upon himself, the Third Service Command and the Military Service."

Chaplain Heine was former pastor of the Lutheran church in Stoutsville, Ohio, and the St. Jacobs Lutheran church, in Tarrilton, Ohio.

Captain Heine is stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, and resides here with his wife and three children.

MESSAGE FROM MONGOLIA IS AMONG MISSING

United Nations Trying To Learn Something About Urga And People

BY ROBERT J. MANNING
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 22—The message from Mongolia is missing.

The membership committee of the United Nations doesn't know for sure that Mongolia has sent a message.

The committee doesn't know how the message would arrive.

There are a lot of things the committee doesn't know about Mongolia. But it is trying to learn.

The committee knows there is a Mongolia, because it had applied to the United Nations membership committee for admission to the UN. The capital of Mongolia is Ulan Bator Khota. To simplify matters, it may also be called Urga.

The membership committee has dispatched two messages to Urga during the past two weeks. The committee wants to know some more about Mongolia's form of government, her diplomatic relations and her general eligibility for membership in the world organization. It also asked, in its first message to Urga, if Mongolia would mind sending an envoy to New York.

The messages were sent by cable.

Then someone asked if cables could be sent to Urga.

Someone asked the company which sent the cables. The company reportedly said it hadn't been able to find out whether the messages arrived.

It seems that the Russians have the best diplomatic relations with the Mongolian republic. The membership committee asked the Soviet delegation to see what it could do about some response from the government of Marshal Chai Bal Sang.

After several days, Alexei Kravtchikov, Russian representative on the membership committee, announced that a representative of the Mongolian government was en route to New York.

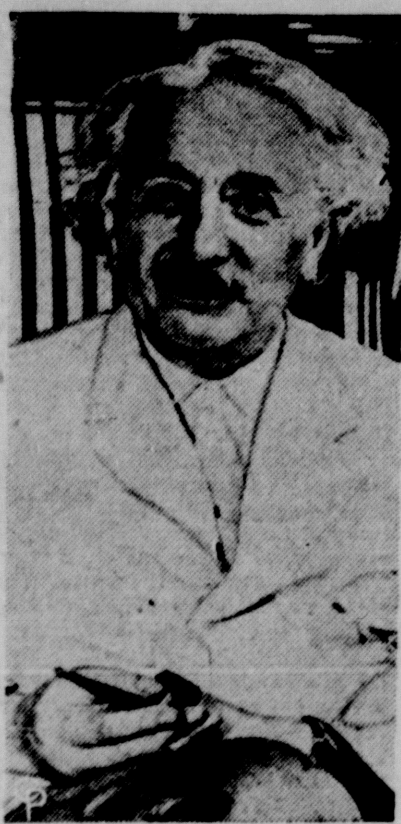

The committee decided it couldn't wait indefinitely. Yesterday it submitted to the security council its report on eight other applicants for UN membership, with the chapter on Mongolia incomplete.

If the message from Urga, or the man from Mongolia arrives with the necessary information before the council makes its membership recommendations to the UN general assembly on Aug. 29, Mongolia might get in. Two thirds of the nations in the general assembly have to approve.

Meanwhile, everyone was trying to learn all they could about Mongolia.

There has been a Mongolian people's republic in fact, if not in name, for about 20 years. Last year China recognized its independence. After the death of the last "living Buddha" in outer Mongolia in 1924, the present leaders of the country staged a revolution and set up a people's republic. Its constitution was inspired by that of the Soviet Union and since then the country has been considered a protégé of Russia.

The college will be open to students and faculty members without regard to race, creed or religious beliefs.

U. S. Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace dug up some facts about the people's republic.

Wallace says in his current book that Mongolian resources have been nationalized in many respects, but that the country's greatest assets—herds of livestock—are privately owned.

The vast, mountainous country covers 1,000,000 square miles, and, Wallace says, its population is estimated at 1,500,000 Mongols, mostly herdsmen who gradually have forsaken the nomadic life and established themselves in permanent homes.

But many United Nations officials feel they still have much to learn about Mongolia.

For example, can cables be sent to Urga?

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent urination, sometimes with smarting and burning, sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PERSISTENCE FOR PEACE

TODAY, only a year after the official end of the most terrible conflict in history, a world barely started on the road to recovery is sickened by omens of more and worse to come. Tanks are rolling in the Middle East, guns roaring from Trieste to China. Barbed wire rises daily around more inhabitants of lands 'freed' by years of bloodshed.

To this state of affairs there can be only one of two ends. There can be more war, worse than has yet been seen, which will leave a few human survivors exhausted beyond ability to rebuild. Or there can be a real and lasting peace, so strong no one will dare to violate it.

Construction of that peace is in the hands of a few men sitting in the meetings of the United Nations, and in the Peace Conference in Paris. They are human beings, tired of war, of struggle with the problems of survival in ravaged countries, and last of all, of the constant verbal wranglings in their meetings. It would be easy for them to give in to gain a little rest. Yet that they must not do. They will have to deal strictly with such thorny dilemmas as Trieste, Yugoslavia, and The Danube, implementing decisions with the power already given the United Nations by their separate peoples. Unless they make a strong peace and enforce it, there will be none at all.

HOUSING GAIN

BUILDINGS are going to be torn down at 11 surplus army and navy installations and the materials will be used for veterans' housing and hospitals. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has just been allotted three million dollars to salvage roofing, fiber siding, wood framing, electrical wiring and fixtures, and plumbing. Crews have already started to tear apart barracks at Camp Howze, Texas.

Colleges and congested cities will get first chance at the materials. The veterans' Administration is next in line, for hospital construction. If anything is left, it will be offered to private priority holders for use in permanent homes for veterans.

This sounds like real action. If there were more of this taking the bull by the horns and using the materials available, and less wringing of hands, the housing problem wouldn't be quite such a big problem.

When inventors can't think up some new complexity, they can always elaborate on something old. For example, a new portable sundial, watch size, is combined with compass and direction finder. It has a luminous jeweled needle and an unbreakable crystal. But they forgot to make it tick.

Coney Island's Luna Park is going to be turned into a housing area for veterans. A place to live will prove much more entertaining than the old amusement center.

Officers' Fancy Swim Pools One or More Cabinet Members
Next on Mead Probe Agenda? May Quit Before Year Is Out

By AUSTINE CASSINI
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Natives would sooner be caught naked on the street than be one of the group of tourists you see any time any day visiting the Capitol dome . . . hearing the guide whisper from 50 feet ahead:

"Any of you who can hear my voice from where you are, step forward."

At this point the entire party of tourists always shuffles forward, everybody having heard. . . For in the "Whispering Gallery" under the Capitol dome a whisper sounds like a yell.

However, truth of the matter is the whole of this District of Confusion is a giant whispering gallery! . . . Among whispers:

● THAT THE MEAD COMMITTEE is opening its ears to urgent requests to investigate those "Hawaiian swimming pools with green lights in their bottoms. . . While United States enlisted men lived in tents or worse, some high-ranking officers in Hawaii were installing swimming pools in their clubs and homes.

And what about the construction company, which seemed to be blessed with all Army contracts?

Questions like that about the green-lighted luxurious pools the Mead committee proposes to get answered next on its agenda.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVES

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—If you happen to be in New York and take a sudden notion to check up on that Jones boy down the street who left for Broadway to get his name in lights, your best bet is to drop into Hanson's drugstore. He'll either be there or will show up if you wait a while.

Hanson's may be a drugstore in name, but actually it is a sort of clubhouse for people in the theater. Big shots as well as the strugglers are regulars. Proprietor Neils Hanson numbers the greatest stars of Broadway and Hollywood and the columnists who write about them as his customers and friends.

From noon until dawn there is plenty of eating going on at Hanson's. Noon brings the breakfast trade of the stay-up-lates, the normal dinner hour finds the customers ordering lunches, and the big meal doesn't begin until late in the evening. The place is never closed.

It is here that the theatrical job-hunters exchange bits of information about casting, praise or pan the new shows and the acting therein, and keep a weather eye open for the possible entrance of a producer or director who might be useful toward gaining employment.

Hanson is quite unperturbed about having the most publicized drugstore in the world. Mention in columns is old stuff to him and he wasn't even feazed recently when a fellow dropped in to discuss a possible movie deal with the drugstore as the "hero."

There are three phone booths in the store, which is next to the Winter Garden theater. The instruments constantly break down under the strain placed upon them. One press agent uses Hanson's as headquarters rather than maintain an office. His income has been in five figures for years. If you're a regular, the store will page you via a new public address system. After five minutes without an answer, the store will try to locate the pagee at some other likely spot.

"It's the little things in life that my regulars appreciate," said Hanson.

The juke box is an important piece of furniture. It is seldom silent. Tin pan alley songpluggers recognize its importance and vie to get their leading numbers into the box.

Hanson himself has a warm regard for the theater and gives preference to recordings of songs from stage musicals. "Hans," as he is affectionately known, watches the reviews of a new show to see whether the critics give it a chance. If the verdict is halfway favorable, he'll put in records with three of the production's tunes. Only in rare cases will he give one show more representation. "Oklahoma!" was an exception and now there is "Annie Get Your Gun," which set a new mark by getting eight songs into the machine. The "Annie" songs are the work of Irving Berlin and he is one of Hanson's favorite regulars.

And, unlikely as it may seem, Hanson sells a few drugs now and then.

SUSPICIOUS RUSSIANS

A remark of Marshal Zhukov tells volumes about the Russians. Gen. Eisenhower, says the Saturday Review of Literature, was urging Zhukov to tell his soldiers not to be suspicious of the Americans. "For more than 20 years," said Zhukov, "we have taught our soldiers and our people to be suspicious. It will take some time to learn not to suspect others."

This throws light on what seems the perverseness of Molotov.

● THAT AT LEAST ONE MEMBER of Congress has not announced it, but is planning to resign and stay home! Rep. Robert L. Doughton is packing up everything, leaving his office for good.

● THAT AT LEAST ONE MEMBER of the cabinet won't finish out 1947. Could be Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach accepting a judgeship in the supreme court or some lower bench. . . Or Secretary of War Robert Patterson bowing out and with Symington moving in. . . Or Secretary of Navy James Forrestal fading.

● THAT, ACCORDING TO JOSH LEE (he's member of the Civil Aeronautics Board and former congressman), 400,000 miles of railroads of inland waterways and highways will go down in China in the next few years. . . Returning servicemen from China remark on the hundreds of thousands of Chinese who have seen thousands of airplanes and never seen a train!

● THAT VICTORIAN PARLOR PIECE on which our ancestors used to display their collector's items is a "Whatnot." . . The one in the capital is loaded with the little possessions that Big People cherish.

Senator Joseph Ball's miniature—hard-working, ex-newspaperman Joe Ball keeps his life simple and free from gadgets. . . His workman-like desk contains little besides pencils, paper and typewriter. . . With one exception, a small color photograph of 6-year-old Sara, youngest of his three children, which is always before him.

If he leaves town or stays away from his office more than a short time, he claps Sara's picture into his pocket and takes it with him.

Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas' locket—The California congresswoman and wife of Melvyn Douglas, actor and producer, has the unrefined character of avoiding mementos and souvenirs. . . Probably her only devotion is her fondness for a locket given to her by hubby five years ago. . . She wears the plain gold disc on the lapel of her tailored suits.

It's size of a half-dollar and is suspended from a gold bow, set with several diamonds. . . Inside are pictures of her children, Peter Gahagan, 12, and Mary Helen, 7.

Mrs. Douglas wore the locket almost constantly while her famous husband was overseas. Even now she's rarely without it.

DIET AND HEALTH

Pain in Limbs After Injury

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOMETIMES a patient visits a doctor to complain of a burning pain throughout an arm or a leg. Examination will reveal either excessive redness or unusual paleness of the affected member. Often, there is also sweating accompanied by swelling, and, sometimes, itching of the skin or even of the bone itself.

In such cases, the doctor will at once suspect previous painful injury or disease. When the nervous system has been subjected to prolonged bombardment by pain impulses it is likely to become disturbed, the over-stimulation by pain gradually bringing about the symptoms described above.

Symptoms Varied

Physicians give this disturbance a long name, reflex sympathetic dystrophy. In some cases there is no pain; in others it may vary from mild to extremely severe. Symptoms may last a few months or many years.

A variety of injuries may be responsible for this condition. Thus, in more than 30 patients studied by Dr. James A. Evans of Boston, the disorder followed sprains in 9 cases, broken bones in 5, inflammation of the veins in 4, flat feet, bruises, cuts, a wart on the sole of the foot and arthritis in a number of others. It appears that it is the sympathetic or involuntary nervous system which is affected in this disorder.

A diagnosis can sometimes be made by injecting into the spine an anesthetic or pain-deadening substance. If such an injection gets rid of all the symptoms, it means that the trouble is due to a disturbance of the sympathetic nervous system. In the same way, treatment can be carried out by blocking the pathways in the sympathetic nervous system.

Local Anesthetic

A substance known as procaine is used for the purpose. This is a local anesthetic. Such treatment relieved 7 out of 9 patients of from one-half to all of their pain for a period of three weeks or more.

An operation may also be performed for cutting certain sympathetic nerves. In 9 out of 13 cases such operation brought practically complete relief from the symptoms.

Persons who have pain, burning, and other symptoms affecting the arms and legs, should be carefully studied to determine if this disorder called reflex sympathetic dystrophy may not be present and if the symptoms are thought to be due to this condition, treatment with the local anesthetic injections may be worth trying.

THE NO TRUMP FETTER

"SO MANY hands will produce the same number of tricks at No Trump as at a suit." This is the fether that causes too many match-point duplicate players to have what might be called "the No Trump complex." They would be better off to say "So few hands will produce the same number of tricks at No Trump as at a suit." Of course there are deals on which the same number of tricks can be taken—even those on which you can make more at No Trump than in the best suit. But that is seldom so when the pair has a four-card suit fitting between the declarer and dummy, together with a doubleton in one or both holdings.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 NT
2 ♠	Pass	1 ♦	Pass

Now just notice what happened to South at Table 1, in spite of the fact that he was lucky enough to find North with the K to protect his unstopped spades. West led the spade J, on which East smartly played the 8, the Q winning. Hoping now to find both minor kings "inside," he finessed the diamond Q, but it lost to the K. Four spade tricks followed, then the heart 2 was led to the Q and the 3 came back to the J, K and A. South now scored three diamonds and finessed the club Q. The K won and another heart was scored to give the defense eight tricks, setting South three.

Where South raised to 2-Diamonds after hearing North's response to the 1-Club opener, the contract was made without any difficulty. One trick was lost in spades, two in hearts and one each in the minors. Making that contract meant a neat swing for the successful pair, which scored 90 points, whereas the rival North-South pair lost 150. Thus the insignificant deal netted 240 points profit to the sounder team—and in the long run 240 points makes a lot per deal.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE
"HAS ANYONE called me?" asked Charlie of Nettie as she came into the hall.

"The telephone hasn't rung once all afternoon," said Nettie. She lowered her voice, then. "Miss Flo's here. In the study."

"Flo!" Charlie drew back a step. "Yes. She said she'd wait till you came."

Charlie piled the packages she was carrying on a console table, doing it slowly to hold off the moment of facing Flo. Then, feeling Nettie's eyes watching her, she lifted her chin and went toward the door of the study.

Flo was standing in the small bay, her back to the room. She saw me get out of Ollie's car, thought Charlie swiftly and a little guiltily. But she said, forcing her voice to a casual note, "Hello, Flo! I didn't know you were back home!"

Flo wheeled around, her face as set as a mask. Charlie could read nothing in it.

"Yes, I got back last evening."

Feeling her knees weak, Charlie sat down on the arm of her mother's chair.

"Where did you go? No one knew—Anna said was that you'd gone somewhere with Neil Winslow."

"I did. We spent most of the time at a little place on Lake Erie."

Silence fell between them, as if each had exhausted the inconsequential things she might say. Flo was the first to break it, loosening her hands, taking a step toward Charlie. "Why have you come back here?" She said it with an anger that brought Charlie to her feet, the better to defend herself.

"You don't know all that's happened!" Charlie was diverted then by a sudden wild hope. She asked shakily, "Have you seen Trent?"

"No. I went down to Peach Place to call on you. That creature down there said you hadn't been there for almost a week. I came here. Nettie said you'd gone shopping. So I waited. What has happened?" She asked it with the old scorn that always had made Charlie feel young and in the wrong.

"It's those stories of Trent's—they were accusing James Muir of bribery—oh, they didn't mention his name but everyone's known, if they went on. And I asked him to stop writing them—and he refused."

Flo put it, "Mother asked you to ask him?"

"I would have, even if she hadn't," fared Charlie. "We owe everything we've had to James Muir, don't we?"

"I thought it was Mother we owed it to," said Flo witheringly. Her tone changed, then. Anger came back into it. "And I'm not so sure we're in her debt! There was a great deal she didn't do for us!"

"What?" demanded Charlie, loyally. Instantly she was sorry she had given Flo this opening. She said quickly, "You never have appreciated what Mother's done for us. What she has sacrificed. . . She went on living with our father years after she stopped loving him."

Just on account of us. . . "Oh, she got something out of it! Dad's failure was a measuring stick, right at hand, for her own success! And she saw to it that we shared her opinion of him! When we might have loved him! Flo's voice broke. "We'd have had that!" She added, bitterly, "She killed him!"

"What a perfectly outrageous thing to say, Flo Patten!" cried Charlie. "He died of scarlet fever!" "He died before that," said Flo, tensely. "And he loved living—the little things about living. . . She stopped, then. What was the use of saying it to Charlie?"

Charlie spoke into the pause. "The real reason I asked Trent to stop writing those things—Mother is going to marry James Muir!"

For a moment Flo stared, not believing her ears, then suddenly she began to laugh, dropping down into a chair, hunching in it with the mirth she seemed unable to control.

"It isn't funny!" cried Charlie, in a choked voice.

"Funnier than you know! We Patten! Mary take on the marriage vows as you and I shake them off! What decided her? Is she looking to her bank account. . ."

"You're simply beastly!" blazed Charlie. "To talk like that. . . You don't care what happens to anyone but yourself! I don't know why you bothered to come here this afternoon!"

Flo's mirth died as suddenly as it had come. She looked down at her hands. "I don't know, myself. . ."

All the way from Peach Place to her mother's house she had fought her impulse to come; she had seen it drawing her back into those confusions of feeling she wanted to leave behind her, forever.

She said, "Perhaps it was because I thought you were really in love with Trent, that it could be—perfection. And that you'd gone into a tailspin and wouldn't see what you were doing to it. . ."

She spoke a little hesitatingly for a moment Charlie saw her face as young and bewildered as she felt, herself, at low moments, her head, and moved her shoulders in the gesture of indifference Charlie knew so well. "It's your affair, if you choose to play into Mother's hands! Mother's, if she wants a money-bag! I've my own boat to paddle. . . Beginning tomorrow, I'm a working woman. I've just got a job at Madame Tiegler's. I'm to be a receptionist, plan shows—very exclusive ones. I'll put you on the list. And I've moved to the Canterbury Club. . ."

"She saw the question in Charlie's rounding eyes and said evenly, 'I've left Doug.'"

"Then—you haven't any right to say a word about—Trent and me!" cried Charlie.

Flo rose to her feet in much the manner of bringing a little call to an end. "No, I haven't any right. I'll run along."

She paused to touch Charlie lightly on the shoulder as she passed her. "Shoo as many as you can into the Tiegler shop! I'll split commissions with you. Though Mother'll see you don't need money! 'By'!"

"You're utterly heartless!" cried Charlie to the sound of the front door closing on her sister. She dropped down into the wing-backed chair, turned her face into the cushions, shaken and frightened by an echo of Flo's words in her heart: ". . . If you choose to play into Mother's hands!"

Had someone told Ollie she was shopping in Higginson's this afternoon? Had someone told him she was at the house, that first day after she'd come? You've never seen anything he brought to Mother that day! She remembered her alarm that night that seemed now, ages ago; it had been fear that her Mother would somehow come between her and Trent.

She dug her face deeper into the cushions, horrified that she could let even the shadow of thoughts so disloyal to her mother come into her head. That was being like Flo! No, her mother was loving and understanding, only concerned for her happiness. If there'd been a choice, it was Trent's—she'd let her come back without a word. . .

He hadn't called—it was four days ago. Four nights. All the days and nights of her life would be like these awful last four had been, she thought, in a complete abandonment to her wretchedness. Waiting, listening, hoping against hope. . .

She lifted her head, seized in a sudden panic. In a few days they'd be on the ocean. . . Trent couldn't reach her, if—if he wanted to!

"I won't go!"

She had said that frequently since her mother had suggested the cruise—to herself, at low moments, not to her mother. She had said it, this afternoon, in Higginson's where she was trying on dinner dresses. She had told the clerk she'd decide tomorrow, that she might not need one. It was after that she'd run into Ollie outside of the store.

"Say, it's swell you and your mother are going on that cruise! She needs it—she's looking frayed lately."

"Who told you we were going?" Ollie's easy smile had not altered.

"Who, but my best girl? You don't think she'd go off without telling me?" He said then, "I'll run home. My car's down the block. Here, give me your load. Looks like Christmas is coming!"

She had welcomed the diversion of his company for the little while it took to drive to the house. Ollie was just being kind, she told herself, now, quickly, before those suspicious she had been wrestling with could lift their heads.

She would tell her mother tonight that she couldn't go so far away. The resolution quieted the turmoil in her and she got up to bathe the streaks of her tears from her face.

As she held a washcloth soaked in cold water to her eyes she thought of Flo's heartless laughter over the news of her mother and James Muir. Thank heaven, her mother hadn't had to hear that!

BY GENEVIEVE REMBLE

THE indications are for a curious state of affairs in which the subtle, intriguing and inexplicable may tax the ingenuity and skill.

There may be complexities and problems too difficult to unravel without the aid and keener vision and sympathetic understanding of elders, superiors or possibly those in authority.

With such direction or stabilizing influence it may be that pitfalls and snares may be avoided. Keep alert to all dubious involvements and emotional flares.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which singular undercurrents or strange adventures may over-shadow all more realistic and practical endeavors.

Intrigue, duplicity, perhaps sinister and seductive forces, are at the root of strange adventures and experiences.

These may be negative or vanquished by the good offices of elders, superiors or others of sound experience and wise vision. Perplexities, and crises may be unraveled by sound judgment and suppression of curious emotional urges. Shun the weird and uncanny in all relations.

A child born on this day may be highly emotional and temperamental, its aspirations and intuitions keen but needing stern regulations by those of sound judgment and common sense.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

LONDON reports a talking dog named Ben which is capable of saying, "I want one!" Are they sure it isn't, "Hi want one?"

These are the annual dog days and Ben certainly seems to be having his.

The talking dog, we read, has British scientists dumfounded. In fact, they, not he, are speechless.

Ben is now being taught to speak additional words. To become popular he had better learn to add an occasional "No thank you" to that constant "I want one."

U. S. WOMEN LOSE HUSBANDS AFTER LOSING FEET

BY ROBERT RICHARDS
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 22—American women are losing their men simply because they're losing their feet.

"With their feet, go their tempers," Dr. Frank Moskowitz explained, "and that's bad. In fact, it's fatal."

The gals are still willing to pursue their men, but when they catch them—according to Moskowitz—they can't talk about love for thinking about their big toes.

"Sore feet are rapidly changing the personalities of many American women," he said, nodding sadly. He thinks about half might go around biting their toenails, if they could reach 'em.

Nine out of 10 women who walk to the altar during September will be walking hand-in-hand with the boy friend, but foot-to-foot with metatarsalgia—or fallen arches.

"We call them depressed arches," Moskowitz said, "and right now it's one of the biggest depressors on the marriage market."

Moskowitz is president of Associated Foot Service, Inc., and his firm treats more than 2,500 persons a year for sore toes.

"Men not only get metatarsalgia," Moskowitz said, "but they often turn up with bromidrosis—which means excessive sweating."

When the bride has metatarsalgia, and the groom has bromidrosis—well, the neighbors usually get pandemonium.

"Or it could lead to murder," Moskowitz said. "After all, they both got a motive."

He believes that personalities and people would be much better if women pasted a sign reading "Inch and a half" on their bedroom mirrors—and always remembered it.

"If they held their heels at an inch and a half," he said, "all of us would be much happier."

Moskowitz said that the relation between toes and temper is as close as brother and sister, and that aching feet quickly made an anarchist out of an angel.

"It hits people who must stand all day the hardest," he explained. "It's an occupational hazard with women like shop girls, or waitresses."

SHOE DEALERS HAVE TROUBLES FILLING ORDERS

Stockpile Of Shoes Gone; Sizes Vary As U. S. People Travel

By BARBARA BUNDSCHU

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 22—If you're having trouble buying a pair of shoes, save some sympathy for the harassed storekeeper—he needs almost 100 pairs just to have one pair in each size from 3B to 11-AAAA, and when he orders some more he has to wait while they're made.

Time was when I. Miller and Sons, Inc., kept a stockpile of their most popular designs to fill the shoe stores' reorders on the spot. But wartime has done away with that convenience, and it will be several years before the firm catches up to that extent.

This despite the fact that five Miller plants are turning out 5,000 pairs of shoes each day, 250 days a year, for a probable total this year of some 1,250,000 pairs of shoes.

In the biggest shoe year of all, 1942, American women bought 3.79 pairs each. They want more now—particularly in the higher priced lines—but the shoemakers are having a terrible time finding out how many more because everything they make sells. They're just making as many shoes as they can and hoping someday there'll be a dud or two left on a dealer's shelf so they can figure it all out.

The same problem hampers a re-estimate of size distribution which has, believe it or not, been disrupted by wartime population moves.

According to Miller statistics, the most popular size in the nation in women's shoes is 6½B, followed in order by 6B, 7AA, 7½AA, 7B and 5½B. Ninety-three per cent of shoes sold are in the varying widths of sizes 5 to 8.

But those overall averages vary by regions. Southern and western women wear narrower sizes than the New Yorkers — by pre-war standards. But people have been moving around, walking more, buying more expensive shoes which come in wider size ranges than the cheaper ones. New Yorkers are buying narrower shoes; southerners are buying wider ones. It's confusing.

The Miller firm, which makes its shoes to retail for $12 and up, admittedly above the average purchase price (ration stamp No. 17 went for shoes of that price for only 13 per cent of American women back in 1943), makes them, however, in the same way as less expensive manufacturers.

The price difference can be found in the quality of leathers, the care with which they are matched and cut to avoid flaws, the detail of workmanship rather than the overall method.

The primary difference between hand-made and machine-made shoes is paste instead of thread, sewing machines instead of hand needles.

The upper of a machine-made shoe is sewed together by machine, pasted on the last to an inner sole—which is leather only around the edges—then pasted to the outer sole.

That's the kind of shoe that most of us wear. Its wear and attractiveness varies primarily with the raw materials, the precision with which it is made, the time when it remains on the last, and the size and style range of the manufacturer.

Miller says it ordinarily has 35 lasts in active production. Each of those lasts — which determines only the silhouette of the shoe—may be used for a wide variety of designs in all sizes.

If you're wearing out the old ones looking for some new, be patient. They really are making shoes.

Kentucky has a milder, more even temperature than any of its neighbors.

RUSSIA REJECTS M'ARTHUR PLAN FOR COUNCIL

TOKYO, Aug. 22—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's plan for the allied control council to admit representatives of the 11 powers which waged the Pacific war met with a flat refusal today from the Russians.

Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, the Russian member of the control council, apparently considered the plan a move to curb Soviet influence.

Derevyanko read a statement to the council saying the proposal was "not within the purview of the council and I cannot even discuss it."

MacArthur announced his plan Aug. 13 to invite powers "not individually represented on the (four power) allied council for Japan informally and unofficially to join the council's discussions and contribute their views on matters which may be brought before the council."

China previously had accepted the proposal with reservations, and W. MacMahon Ball, representing the United Kingdom, had agreed to refer the matter to commonwealth governments concerned.

Chairman George Atcheson, Jr., representing the United States, pointed out that all 11 nations are included on the Far East commission in Washington. He said an enlarged council would afford "an effective agency for full allied cooperation."

TOMBSTONE NOT SO TOUGH

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. — Tombstone, known as "The Town That's Too Tough to Die," wasn't so bloody in the good old days of the rugged West after all.

A rummage through Cochise county records shows that of 147 fatal gun fights in the county from 1879 to 1890, only 29 were shot out in Tombstone.

COLONELS SWEEP TWIN BILL TO TAKE LONG LEAD

By United Press
Louisville's sweep of a double-header placed it three-and-a-half games ahead in the American Association today with only 21 games remaining to complete the season. The Colonels whipped Minneapolis, 5 to 4 and 7 to 2, last night to drop the Millers into fifth place.

Milwaukee took the vacated fourth spot, trouncing Columbus twice, 7 to 4 and 5 to 0. St. Paul and Indianapolis split a pair of games and Kansas City and Toledo divided two.

65 REPORT FOR G.R.D. PRACTICE AT HIGH SCHOOL

'Conditioning' To Be Stressed In Early Workouts; First Game September 13

About 65 boys turned out Wednesday in answer to the first call for practice for the 1946 football season at Circleville high school.

Among the group reporting to Coach Steve Brudzinski and his assistant, E. R. "Tommy" Bennett, were several lettermen from last year's team and one from the 1944 team. Freshmen and sophomores, out for the first time, were numerous.

Before taking the boys on the field Coach Brudzinski held a short meeting in which he outlined training rules. He promised a few days of "conditioning" and then plenty of work in preparation for the season which opens September 13 with Holy Rosary here.

On the football field the coaches sent the boys through a brisk session of calisthenics, including pushups, "bicycling", and the other usual exercises. Following sprints the length of the field the squad was divided, Bennett taking the boys out for the first time, and Brudzinski directing the experienced men.

The experienced boys went through a short session of pass throwing and receiving and punting. Then came more sprints and the showers. Bennett showed the youngsters fundamentals.

Leon Sims, who did a lot of playing before he went in the Navy, was the only war veteran on the field.

Coach Brudzinski said one-a-day sessions stressing conditioning, will continue through Saturday. Starting Monday the boys will work out twice daily in football equipment.

Plenty of work is promised as an effort is made to build a starting team from nine lettermen and a few boys who received some game experience last season.

NEW ASSISTANT CHS COACH WAS ARMY CAPTAIN

E. R. "Tommy" Bennett, new assistant football coach at Circleville high school, has had several years coaching experience in schools and also did quite a bit of physical education work in the Army.

A graduate of Ohio University, Bennett played football at Rio Grande and Marshall colleges. He coached and taught six years in Lawrence county schools before going into the Army. He served 3 1/2 years.

Going into service as a buck private he was discharged as a captain. He served as an assistant S-2 officer much of the time. When his outfit was not in combat he directed physical education most of the time.

At present Bennett is rooming here but he is trying to find an apartment or house for he and his wife.

CITY SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT WILL START TONIGHT

Play in the city softball tournament starts tonight at Ted Lewis park.

Isaly's and American Legion start the tournament at 8:30 p. m. Friday night Williamsport Red and White plays Blue Ribbon; Monday Stansbury-Stout and Esmeralda are scheduled and Tuesday Richards Implement and Eagles are paired.

Second round starts immediately after the first round with games planned every night weather permits. The tournament is a double-elimination affair with two defeats necessary to knock a team out of the event. Winner will receive a large trophy.

DICK HAYMES SHOW

CBS' Dick Haymes Show brings back for another airing the Gordon Jenkins-Tom Adair production of "Skip to My Lou" as the program's featured operetta, Thursday, 8 p. m., EST. The "Skip to My Lou" number, rated one of the most popular in the series, highlights the ensemble singing of the Four Hits And A Miss and the 20-voice chorus, together with the music of the 36 piece orchestra. With Dick Haymes and Helen Forrest still vacationing, the program's opening tune spotlights the show's chorus in "I've Got The Sun In The Morning," while the Suitecase Six rhythm group provides its own version of "Avalon."

the Ganges" and "Surrender." Vocalist Betty Norton and Maestro Monroe share singing honors, while Monroe's guests will be the Slam Stewart instrumental trio. The broadcast originates from New York.

CALIFORNIA MELODIES

Four numbers from George Gershwin's "Girl Crazy" -- "Bidin' My Time," "Embraceable You," "But Not For Me" and "I Got Rhythm" -- provide the main theme for the orchestral and choral offerings of "California Melodies" Thursday, (9-9:30 p. m., EST) over Mutual. Other selections to be heard in special arrangements by Conductor Harry Zimmerman, include "Dancing In The Dark," "Come Rain, Come Shine" and "Silhouettes."

OTHER WOMAN

The heartwarming drama of an ugly duckling whose love for a campus adonis survived even when he went to Hollywood and became a famous actor, though she knew there was little chance of her affection being reciprocated, will be heard when "Real Stories From Real Life," presents "The Other starring vehicle, "The Great Horvitz," centers around the wife of a mind-reader. In love with a dancer in the act, the wife wonders whether her husband's telepathic powers enable him to detect her infidelity. When he goes to Australia on a tour, the thought preys on her mind and leads to a strange climax.

CARRINGTON PLAYHOUSE

"Enter Youth," a drama by Carolyn Darling, will be presented on "The Carrington Playhouse," Thursday, (7-7:30 p. m., EST) over Mutual. This latest offering of the playhouse is the story of a great lady of the theatre and the conflict and struggle when her stein's "Melody In F" and Gershwin's "S Wonderful." The other Eddie, Mr. Horton himself, will parry puns and exchange bon mots with Duchin and the rest of the cast. The musical part of the program includes Milena Miller's vocal selection, "Surrender," and two of the King Cole Trio's most popular arrangements, "Sweet Lorraine" and "Route 66." The Trio, high-stepping harmony group, rank high in nationwide popularity.

7 SUGGESTIONS TO KEEP COWS HEALTHY GIVEN

Cattle Should Be Watched
Closely During Late
Summer, Early Fall

COLUMBUS, Special: A checklist of seven suggestions to maintain the health of cattle through the critical late Summer and early Fall season was issued here today by livestock health authorities.

The American Foundation for Animal Health, pointed out that severe losses of cattle can be suffered if these points are neglected, today offered this set of recommendations:

1. Select good heifer calves for herd replacements now.
2. Inspect the herd frequently for the presence of screw-worms; losses from these parasites can usually be prevented by prompt treatment of wounds.
3. Maintain an ample clean water supply for the herd; each animal needs an average of about 12 gallons daily.
4. Watch out for outbreaks of blackleg or anthrax. If these diseases have been prevalent in the locality, have the veterinarian vaccinate against them to insure against losses.
5. The most dangerous season for poisonous plants begins now. Check pastures and fence rows for plants that could poison stock.
6. Keep a careful check on cows with calves—be sure that they get adequate feed and water to produce adequate milk and to build themselves up for the Winter ahead.
7. Handle stock carefully and quietly, both in driving the herd and in hauling cattle to market.

'BOY EMPEROR' TO FACE TRIAL AT LATER DATE

TOKYO, Aug. 22—Henry Pu-Yi, onetime puppet emperor of Manchukuo, will be tried before a special court, presumably for collaborating with Japan, it was learned today.

Disclosure that the slender "boy emperor" will face trial was made by Joseph B. Keenan, chief prosecutor in the war crimes trial of 27 leading Japanese suspects where Pu-Yi is appearing as a prosecution witness.

In his four days of testimony, Pu-Yi steadfastly has insisted that he was forced to become emperor of Manchukuo because of threats made against his life. He has emphasized repeatedly that he was opposed to the Japanese but dared not show it.

His attempts to excuse himself for not taking a stronger stand against his Japanese overlords drew from court president William Webb a remark that the witness was not on trial. Keenan leaped to his feet and said:

"When the time comes for Pu-Yi to go on trial before a special tribunal the world will learn whether duress alone is enough evidence to condemn a man."

In his cross-examination testimony, Pu-Yi emphatically denied that he sought Japanese aid in becoming emperor of Manchukuo and labelled as a forgery a letter he purportedly wrote to a trial defendant asking for assistance.

The meadowlark is the official bird of seven states—Kansas, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota and Wyoming.
